

Payroll & Compensation Handbook

Section 1: Salary Structure and Basic Pay

Employees receive their monthly salary based on their employment contract. The structure consists of Basic Salary, House Rent Allowance (HRA), Special Allowance, and Travel Allowance.

Salaries are reviewed annually in conjunction with the performance review cycle. Details of salary structures are confidential and should not be discussed openly among colleagues.

Section 2: Deductions, Taxes, and PF

Deductions from gross salary include Professional Tax, Income Tax (TDS), and Provident Fund (PF) contributions. Provident Fund contributions are matched by the company according to local labor laws.

TDS deductions are calculated based on the investment declarations submitted by the employee in April. Failure to submit proof of investments by January will result in default tax calculations.

Section 3: Payment Schedule and Payslips

Monthly salaries are credited directly to employees' designated bank accounts on the last business day of every month. Bank details must be kept updated in the ERP profile.

Payslips are generated electronically and can be downloaded from the ERP portal's Payroll section on the 1st of the following month. For any discrepancies, contact the finance desk.

Section 4: Reimbursements and Allowances

Business travel, client meals, and official utility expenses are eligible for reimbursement. Claims must be submitted with original receipts within 30 days of the expense.

Late submissions will not be processed. Allowances for internet connectivity or work-from-home setups are paid out monthly upon department head approval.

Section 5: Payroll Queries and Disputes

If you receive an incorrect payout, submit a ticket in the ERP support desk under 'Payroll Query'. Include your Employee ID, payout month, and details of the discrepancy.

The payroll team resolves payroll disputes within 5 working days. Approved adjustments will be paid out as a special run or added to the subsequent month's salary cycle.
